

SPANISH BANK MEETS FAILURE.

Overloaded on Mexican Securities. Government May Aid.

Madrid, Spain, Dec. 11.—The Hispano-Americano Bank suspended payment again to-day. It had been obliged to do so temporarily yesterday owing to a run, but the Bank of Spain came to its assistance. It was reported that the bank was overloaded with Mexican securities.

The Hispano-Americano Bank filed its declaration of suspension of payments to-day.

The minister of finance declared that the Bank of Spain had lent $4,000,000 to the Hispano-Americano Bank and had offered it another $2,000,000. This had been declined by the Hispano-Americano Bank on the ground that it was not enough to meet demands of the depositors, which amount to $20,000,000. All the depositors were demanding their money, it was explained, and the officials had decided it was better to suspend payments now than later.

Long lines of depositors besieged the doors of the bank from an early hour this morning. Those who had securities deposited there for safe-keeping were allowed to withdraw them.

The finance minister announced that if the Spanish government could find a means of avoiding losses to depositors it would do so.

California Woman Seriously Alarmed

"A short time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and caused me a great deal of annoyance. I would have had coughing spells and my lungs were so sore and inflamed I began to be seriously alarmed. A friend recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saying she had used it for years. I bought a bottle and it relieved my cough the first night, and in a week I was rid of the cold and soreness of my lungs," writes Miss Marie Gerber, Sawtelle, Cal. For sale by all dealers.

TOCCOANS PLAN COLD STORAGE.

Chamber of Commerce Looks to Marketing Farm Products.

Toccoa, Ga., Dec. 11.—A very important meeting of the Board of Trade occurred Tuesday night to confer with Chas. J. Haden, president of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce. It was resolved to change the name of the Board of Trade, and that it hereafter be called the Toccoa and Stephens County Board of Trade, and the farmers of the county will be urged to join. An earnest campaign will be begun to improve farming and marketing methods throughout the county. The chamber unanimously resolved to become members of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce. A meeting will be called at an early date for the purpose of aiding in the State-wide campaign of preparation against the coming of the boll weevil.

The subject of cold storage and a warehouse system at Toccoa for the purpose of storing and handling agricultural products, and thereby stimulating food productions, was earnestly discussed. It is quite probable that at an early day plans in this direction will take definite shape.

In his speech Mr. Haden said that the Georgia Chamber of Commerce would, at a date about the middle of January, call a meeting at a central point in northeast Georgia, at which the entire apple-growing section would be asked to participate to make plans for the upbuilding of the apple-growing industry.

Sleep-disturbing bladder weakness, stiffness in joints, weak, inactive kidney action and rheumatic pains, are all evidence of kidney trouble. Mrs. Mary A. Dean, 47 E. The number of young women who suffer with weak back, dizzy and nervous spells, dull headache and weariness is surprising. Killed Day After Wedding.

Dothan, Ala., Dec. 11.—J. A. Wachob, of Compass Lake, Fla., was accidentally killed Monday while out hunting. He was alone, and when he failed to return a searching party was organized to look for him. Tuesday night the searchers found him by the side of a fence, the greater portion of one side of his breast shot away. His gun lay on the opposite side of the fence.

Wachob was a young man well known at Compass Lake. He was until recently employed as a telegraph operator at that place by the Atlantic and Gulf Telegraph Co.

He is survived by a bride of five days, having been married Sunday.

Rio Grande Had No Fire.

Brunswick, Ga., Dec. 10.—Twelve hours overdue, the Mallory Line steamship Rio Grande arrived here early to-day on her trip from New York, captain and crew eager to learn the origin of reports that the vessel had played a part in a deep sea rescue off the North Carolina coast. Disjointed bits of wireless messages told Capt. Davis that the United States revenue cutter service was seeking his ship, believing 19 passengers had been taken off by another steamer and returned when a fire aboard the ship was extinguished.

The Rio Grande carried freight only. The only incident of the trip was a storm off Hatteras, which caused the delay in arrival. Capt. Davis believes that no rescue took place from any ship and that the wireless messages were faked.

Investigation Started.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Suspicion that fraudulent wireless messages may have been sent out by some amateur reporting the disaster to the steamer Rio Grande to-day led the bureau of navigation to start an investigation. The penalty is fine or imprisonment or both.

Anderson Gets Cigar Factory.

(Daily Mail.) The manufacturing committee of the Chamber of Commerce has been advised by one of the large cigar manufacturing companies of Florida, with whom the chamber has been in communication for some time, that it will move its plant to Anderson and begin work the first of March, 1914.

This plant has been in operation in Florida for several years and has done a large business, and it will offer 40 or 50 people, from the start, work in Anderson at good wages.

Found Guilty of Murder.

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 11.—Bennie Henson, a young white man, was found guilty this afternoon in circuit court of the murder of his wife, Ethel Henson, two months ago. The verdict was without recommendation and carries the death penalty.

Henson is alleged to have pursued his wife through the street after she had left her place of employment in a restaurant, and as she pleaded to him, on her knees, he shot her to death. The jury was out 40 minutes.

Green Bones as Poultry Feed.

In my estimation the value of a bone cutter exceeds its cost if the cutter is used only one season; but as cutters are almost indestructible, they will last for years, says Bertha Wilson, of Kentucky, in Southern Farming. Fresh green bone is of itself almost a complete feed, and may be used as a special material for egg production. The amount of moisture in bone is small compared with some other feeds. It may be set down at about 35 per cent. Bone contains about 22 pounds of mineral matter in 100 pounds, 20 of fat and 20 of albuminoids. The mineral matter contains about 28 pounds of phosphate of lime, 11½ of carbonate of lime, and a small proportion of earthy matter.

Any one can easily see that bone is one of the best feeds for producing eggs, as the fat assists in forming the yolk of the egg and also in sustaining the fowl in winter. The albuminoids provide the albumen for the eggs, and the carbonate of lime forms the shell, while the phosphate of lime is an ingredient of the eggs, and is also just the thing to feed to growing chicks. Then there is always more or less meat adhering to green bone. This is highly nutritious, and very favorable to the production of eggs. Oyster shells will be needed when bones are fed, as the bone contains sufficient lime. Bone also serves to some extent as grit.

Green Food for Laying Hens.

Next to cabbage, for a main dependence, I like sugar beets. These I eat open lengthwise and impale on headless spikes driven in the wall at a height which will compel the hens to jump to pick at them. I do not make them jump high, just enough to provide a little exercise. They will eat the beets out clean, leaving only the tough rind. Mangels I feed in the same way, but these are tougher and less sweet, and hens do not eat them so freely. Turnips and rutabagas I have found very good green food, especially for a change. These I either boil or chop.

Henrieville, Dec. 10.—The State Baptist Convention will meet next year at the Citadel Square church, Charleston. The convention sermon will be preached by Dr. C. E. Burts, of Columbia.

True to their Colors.

(Philadelphia Ledger.)

There is an old-fashioned genuineness in the case of the Scotchman who would not pay duty on Sunday that appeals to one in these days of shifting standards and drifting beliefs. His own folks never traded on that day and he could not begin to "I can do it," he said. "I'll not pay duty on the gold Sabbath."

In a quaint Pennsylvania town through which there is much motor travel we saw this sign in large, dignified letters: "We are grateful for your patronage, but we cannot sell on Sunday," and in the faces of the two elderly women who kept the shop there was "the sweetest and delightful emblem of a heart filled with peace." Modern travel has transformed the old Sunday.

Country roads that knew no sounds louder than the songs of the birds and nothing swifter than the old family horse jogging home from church now hear screeches in clouds of dust and the Sunday quiet is gone. But there are a few who stick to the old ways, and often it seems they get something out of life that is lost in the speed madness of the age.

SCHMIDT GREETED HIS FATHER.

Priest on Trial for His Life Asks Forgiveness of Parent.

New York, Dec. 11.—Hans Schmidt, the one-time priest, on trial for the murder of Anna Ammiller, this afternoon fell on his knees in District Attorney Whitman's office, kissed the hand of his aged father, who came all the way from Germany to try to save him from the electric chair, and in a flood of tears begged his forgiveness. This morning, Schmidt refused to recognize his father.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schaddler, Hans Schmidt's sister, who made the trip from Germany with her father, was present at the meeting. Schmidt embraced her affectionately. For half an hour she and her father tried to soothe the prisoner, but he refused to be comforted and still was weeping when led back to his cell.

All the State's witnesses except alienists have testified and Schmidt's trial to-day was halted in mid-afternoon until to-morrow to permit the district attorney to confer with the alienists before putting them on the stand.

Medical Opinion on Modern Dances.

The latter-day dances have been discussed and criticized from almost every standpoint. To complete the list the Journal of the American Medical Association has recently raised its dignified and professional editorial voice in gentle warning. "It seems somewhat late," it says, "to enter protest against the fervor with which the newest 'so-called' dances have been taken up by a public already saturated with various nerve and mind-destroying amusements and caprices. It seems unnecessary to call attention to the fact that the tango, the various waltzes, the maxixe, etc., are being ardently cultivated by callow youth and calloused old age. The problems created by these dances differ according to the age of the participants; for the young the question of morality is paramount; for the old the possibility of too great a strain on a dilated heart or an overtaxed nerve system is apparent. The physician who is well to caution the stiff-jointed, aged patient, who desires to treat a sprain from knee to hip, the harmful amusements."

Boys Save Big Four Train.

Anderson, Ind., Dec. 11.—Two boys, one eight and the other ten, who modestly refused to give their names, to-day saved Big Four passenger train No. 48 from a probably disastrous wreck just north of here. The boys were taking a short cut along the railroad track on their way to school and found a rail sixteen feet long out of place. They knew the passenger train was about due and rushed down the track to meet it, took off their coats, and from the middle of the track waved them until the engineer brought his train to a stop. Passengers from the coaches made up a large purse for the boys.

British Steamer Deserted.

San Francisco, Dec. 11.—Dismasted and deserted, the British ship Dalgomar, from Callao for Talta, Chile, was sighted October 28, about 1,200 miles west of the coast of Chile, by the French barque Marie, Capt. Noricet, which to-day arrived here from Liverpool.

The Dalgomar probably carried 30 men. Two of her small boats were missing, but the others still swung from her davits. The cargo had shifted, and she was lying almost on her beam ends.

THE FIGHT FOR FRANK'S LIFE

To Be Resumed—Judge Roan's Ruling Severely Criticized.

(Atlanta Constitution, 12th.) Judge L. S. Roan's ruling in the Frank case was severely criticized in the brief which Frank's attorneys will file with the Supreme Court to-day. It is charged that Judge Roan refused to grant the defendant a new trial when he himself admitted that he was in doubt as to his guilt.

The brief was presented to Solicitor General Dorsey Thursday. The brief of the evidence has also been completed and the attorneys will be in readiness to begin anew their fight for Frank's life when the case is called in the Supreme Court. The brief of the evidence is very lengthy, filling 600 pages of ordinary size.

The arguments will consume another 389 pages and the original motion for a new trial, together with the amended motion, 159 pages. The total is approximately 1,100 pages.

What Defense Claims.

In commenting on Judge Roan's statement in refusing a new trial, the defense says, in part:

"The court, keeping in mind that the danger and the temptation, has repeatedly reversed the court below when it appeared from the record that the trial court, from timidity or from misapprehension as to the law, failed to exercise his own discretion and substituted the verdict of the jury for the discretion which it is the solemn duty of the court to exercise."

"It is, of course, true that the court in determining whether or not the trial court has exercised or failed to exercise its legal discretion will look solely to the record, giving full force to the presumption that the court has exercised its discretion and that the verdict does, in fact, meet his approbation. In the present case the court rendered an oral judgment, as will be seen from the bill of exceptions."

"What must have been the state of mind of the trial judge when he denied this motion? What a turmoil of mental doubt and vacillation must have overwhelmed him? Think of the case as he might, and as much as he said he did, he was yet unable to find a yard of solid conviction on which to stand. Try as earnestly as he did, he reached and could reach no conclusion that satisfied his heart of his conscience. He vacillated and vacillated, with no hope of rest at rest, he gave the whole burden of the jury."

When the Frank case is called Monday the attorneys will ask for a longer time to present their argument than the usual two hours allowed to a side.

Highest Point in Eastern U. S.

Inquiries received at the United States Geological Survey indicate that a good many people believe that Mount Washington, in New Hampshire, is the highest mountain in the eastern part of the United States. Mount Washington is 6,293 feet high, but the Southern Appalachians contain many peaks which are several hundred feet higher than New Hampshire's famous mountain. North Carolina has the highest mountain in the Appalachian system, namely, Mount Mitchell, with an elevation of 6,711 feet, and Tennessee's highest mountain, Mount Guyot, is 6,636 feet above sea level.

Look for the TRIANGLE

LOOK for this triangle before you buy any heater.

It is the trademark of the latest model of the Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater.

It is the sign of the greatest improvements ever made in oil heating devices.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

The Perfection Heater, as now made, gives more heat, holds more oil, is better made and works better than any other heater on the market.

It has a wide, shallow oil font, which allows the oil to pass readily up the wick and insures reliable, unchanging flame and heat, whether the font is full or nearly empty.

The Perfection is smokeless, because the patent locking flame-spreader prevents the wick being turned up high enough to smoke. It is easy to re-wick, because the carrier and wick are combined—just turn out the old and slip in the new.

Indicator tells how much oil is in the font. Filler plug is pushed in like a cork—no screw, no thread to wear. Attractive latticed window frame.

The Perfection Heater is finished in vitreous turquoise-blue enamel or plain steel drums; looks well, lasts well, easy to carry wherever wanted.
